June 2011 Free Giveaway Sponsor - Hacking Dojo

Win 1-Year Hacking Dojo Subscription = $1600!

If you've ever done martial arts and experienced learning in a dojo, then you're familiar with a teaching style that has succeeded for centuries. Thomas Wilhelm, author, instructor, speaker, professional penetration tester & all-around kewl guy, brings this concept to the security industry:

"The Hacking Dojo provides students with a long-term training and support system, with readily-available access to instructors. Students attend regularly-scheduled online meetings with their instructor, who teaches hacking concepts relative to students' skill level. When the students demonstrate proficiency in a set of skills, they are moved onto more difficult challenges and instruction."

Up for grabs this month is a full year of training in the dojo with one of the industry's most respected names. Also, for the month of June, Mr. Wilhelm is taking $50 off the first month's subscription (tell him EH-Net sent you). But to win the prize, all you have to do is become an EH-Net member & give back to the community in our discussion forums. It's that easy... well there will be competition, but it will be good practice before you get in the Hacking Dojo. Kia!!
