

April 2011 Free Giveaway Winner - Rapid7

We Have a Winner!!

OK... so you've seen the great videos by Ryan Linn, the webcast by James "Egyp7" Lee and the numerous forum discussions. April was the time for someone to get their very own copy of Metasploit Express that includes the full license & support for 1 year. And for your viewing pleasure, be sure to check our Metasploit's newly redesigned website. For those not in the know or unfamiliar with the Express Edition:

Metasploit Express builds on the power of the Metasploit Framework, the gold standard for penetration testing with more than one million unique downloads in the past year and the largest public database of quality assured exploits. Unlike the Metasploit Framework, which offers only a command-line interface, Metasploit Express provides an easy-to-use graphical user interface that guides the user through the steps of discovery, gaining access, taking control, and collecting evidence. In addition to the features available in the Metasploit Framework, Metasploit Express automates many common penetration testing tasks and provides the ability to launch advanced attacks without the need to develop custom scripts. Individuals whose role does not permit them to conduct penetration tests can still verify exploitability with a dry run that only shows the exploit information but does not execute the exploits.

All someone had to do was participate on EH-Net. And that deserving EH-Net member this time around is Jamie.R. Congrats and keep up the good work. Even if you didn't win this month, keep it up. Not only will there be more prizes each and every month, but also your participation is helping many people in the global security community. For that, all EH-Netters deserve a huge thanks.

del.icio.us

Discuss in Forums {mos_smf_discuss:News Items and General Discussion About EH-Net}

Participation is the ONLY way to win. Start a thread that sparks lots of interest; share thoughts and experiences; help a newbie... quality is more important than quantity.

Only members are eligible!

Registration Is FREE!

